

JAMES JEFFREY

Walk against want

TWO entries in Good Cause Corner, and the first is Senator John Faulkner, who is about to perform his annual ritual of dragging a few hapless bastards 100km through the bush from the Hawkesbury River to Sydney Harbour for the Sydney Oxfam Trailwalk. To ensure Faulkner and his team, including Kevin Rudd's former chief of staff Alister Jordan, don't suffer in vain, you can chip in for the Tigers, aka Team 100, at trailwalker.oxfam.org.au. In the meantime, Neighbour Day founder Andrew Heslop is thrilled with a TV ad for the annual event made gratis by Brisbane company Taxi Films. Says Heslop, "Thanks to David Leckie, David Gyngell, Kim Williams, Mark Scott, Angelos Frangopoulos, Peter Jenetsky, Nicole Sheffield and Alan Joyce at Qantas it was seen all over Australia, including in prime time. They all put it to air for free." Alas, there's been a hiccup with the donor who was going to cover the $2500 distribution cost. "I have funded Neighbour Day out of my own pocket for 10 years without any government or corporate financial support. Perhaps a generous Strewth reader can help out? Contact me at www.neighbourday.org." strewth@theaustralian.com.au
